

Case Study

McVey & Murrricane

McVEY & MURRICANE
SOLICITORS AND NOTARIES PUBLIC

As one of Glasgow's leading small firms of solicitors and notaries offering a broad range of legal services, McVey & Murrricane required software that would enhance organisational and time management abilities and allow employees to plan and problem solve in a more methodical manner.

At McVey & Murrricane, the use of MindGenius in project planning and development has greatly enhanced employee productivity and time management. In optimising their workload using MindGenius, McVey & Murrricane have been able to release more free time to respond to their clients' needs and deliver faster and more effective services.

Founded as a partnership in 1963, McVey & Murrricane is one of Glasgow's leading small firms of solicitors and notaries, offering a broad range of civil litigation services, including commercial and residential conveyancing. In addition, McVey & Murrricane provide legal services to the membership of a large trade union in Scotland and execute volume re-mortgages and repossession work on behalf of a number of major lenders.

With responsibilities including business development and client satisfaction, senior partner Allan Radlow wished both to enhance his organisational and time management abilities and to plan and problem solve in a more methodical manner. In evaluating software, Allan was already aware of the potential of mind maps within business and MindGenius provided the functionality that he required for project planning and development on an ongoing basis.

As the creative front-end to MS Office, MindGenius enables Allan to generate content as a map before exporting as a Word document or Powerpoint presentation for distribution. Allan uses MindGenius in the planning and evaluation of his meetings, ensuring greater focus and faster results. As McVey & Murrricane's case management software is closely integrated with Outlook, Allan can also assign actions within MindGenius and export to Outlook as tasks, co-ordinating the sources from which he wants to work within Outlook.

In using MindGenius to improve time management and enhance productivity, Allan has been able to release more free time to respond to his clients' and employees' needs, enabling the delivery of faster and more effective services. Having used MindGenius now for 2 years, Allan remains extremely content with the product and promotes its use and benefits throughout McVey & Murrricane.

“MindGenius is a brilliant package that has greatly enhanced my organisational, planning and problem solving abilities.”

Allan Radlow,
Senior Partner,
McVey & Murrricane

Case Study

“MindGenius is a brilliant package that has greatly enhanced my organisational, planning and problem solving abilities. This product is a must for any busy organisation [and] is so easy to use that even IT beginners will be impressed by its simplicity and the results. I congratulate MindGenius Limited on providing an excellent product and a standard of customer care to match.”